What instructions are tested and work
- We have tested and recorded the documentation for Ubuntu, macOS and Amazon Linux. This includes documentation for setting up PostgreSQL and the installation of augur on both operating systems.
- We have tested and recorded documentation for Fedora, but we could not get everything working. The documentation on both the Table of Contents and the Installation pages reflects that.

We also finalized the wording and layout for all operating systems. They should all be similar and be separated out in the same way.

Since Sprint 3, someone uploaded a guide on installing Ubuntu on a VM into Quickstart. We have rearranged this, since the layout did not make sense - those instructions can now be found under the Getting Started header.
